RESOURCES
☐ Worksheet for each pupil– Thinking About Drugs
☐ How much do you know about cannabis & other drugs quiz.
Activity 1
❖ Divide the class into pairs or threes, you may want students to work with a mixed group of people rather than chosen friends who may hold similar views.
❖ In groups create a mind map around the central phrases “Heroin users are … ..” or “Cannabis users are …..”. Discuss words used, stereotypes etc.
❖ Give out the worksheet with sentence stems “Thinking About Drugs” to explore attitudes about drugs/drug users. Ask students to chose 3 to 5 that interest them or direct them to specific statements. Mark these with a *.
❖ Students to stand up and walk around the room asking 2-3 people to complete the same sentence stem. Allow 5 minutes for this activity.
❖ Discuss some of these as a class – why do attitudes about drugs differ? Where do our attitudes about drugs come from? (parents/carers, media, friends, peers, experience etc.)
   ● How reliable are our sources of information about drugs?
   ● Main Learning Points:
     The way that we think and talk about heroin/crack users is often different from other drug users. This is often (but not always) linked to the harm these drugs cause for individuals, their families and the community.
   ● Consider:
     What makes a drug socially acceptable or unacceptable
   ● Do our views on alcohol, tobacco or legal highs differ from that on illegal drugs? If so, how?
   ● Cannabis is the most commonly used illegal drug used by adults and young people in the UK – how might these views compare. How might the health, social and legal issues impact on younger cannabis users?

Activity 2
❖ Using How Much do you know about Cannabis & other drugs quiz. Students to research or use own knowledge to answer questions as true or false.
❖ Use www.talktofrank.com website for information about drugs.
❖ Use Teachers' notes to go through answers, clarify information and highlight that research on drugs is going on all the time.
❖ There is a wide range of research on substances like cannabis, as they have been available for many years – this could be compared to new drugs like methadone/mephadone, Ivory Wave, and other chemical "legal highs" which are being developed and imported, which have no research on the short or long term effects.
